Your Comments: Seriously, with all the funds that the government spends on protecting wildlife, it is remarkable to me that the EPA does not seem to take into consideration what lives in the water and continues to advocate for doing nothing in the hopes that the pollution will self correct over ions. Please clean up the toxic Willamette River and make it safe for humans, mammals and fish. I love the river as Portland's city playground and want my children and grandchildren to be able to enjoy it too without being afraid of what lurks beneath the surface. Let's pay the price now and protect future generations. And please don't forget that this type of disregard for our natural resources will continue if individuals and corporations are not held accountable and made to feel the financial pain.....the only kind of pain that seems to get anyone's attention. Thank you. (b) (6)
